THERE have been many contests waged before the present Legislature for seats in that body. The majority, if not all of them, have been decided. It is said that some of the contests were decided according to partisan views and proposed in a bill introduced by Edusome of them according to law. Not knowing the facts, we have no opinion; and are, therefore, content to let the matter rest on the presumption that all officials endeavor to perform their duties honestly. The unusual number of these contests brings sharply into view a practice of long observance, both in the federal and State Legislatures which might be inquired into the practice of allowing both the contestant and contestee counsel fees and expenses incurred in conducting the contest. What warrant of law is there for this? We say what warrant of LAW, not usage, not legislative enactment, but LAW! These fees and expenses are appropriated out of the public funds raised by taxation, the only way the State can get money. This money does not belong to the Legislature. It is owned by the people. 'The Legislature has no legal or moral right to spend a nickel of it except for the benefit of the people. If two men wage a faw suit over an executive or judicial office, the loser must pay all the costs. The State, that is the people, does not pay a cent of the costs either in the way of court costs or lawyer's fee. A simpleton knows this much law. Upon what prineiple shall we apply a different rule of law when the contest is between two men over a legislative office? Is a member of the Legislature invested, by virtue of his office, with some peculiar dignity or excess of sanctity which does not pertain to the Governor of a State or a Judge of the appellate court? A man who contests the claim of another for a seat in the Legislature does so only because he thinks it to his own personal advantage to have that seat. The man who defends that contest is moved by a similar reason. An effice one brother, W. A. Bottom, of Lawis a property right. Each one contends for the right to have that property. If one loses that is his loss, not the public's. If the other gains that is his gain, not the public's. Why, then, should the public pay the expense? It is no answer to this question to say that these expenses are paid out of the contingent fund, and that the Legislature can appropriate what it pleases out of this fund. The latter part of this answer is false in law and in morals. The contingent fund like other funds, is put bonds, securities, etc ..... into the treasury for public purposes only. The power of the Legislature over it is not absolute. It is true that a State Legislature, speaking in general terms, has power to make any law which is not prohibited by the constitution. But there are modifications even of this general principle. A Legislature cannot appropriate private property for public use without comion to the owner. A Legislature Legal-tember notes. cannot appropriate private property for | Hedemption fund with P.S. Treas. private use either with or without compensation. The Legislature cannot touch a single dollar of this contingent fund, whether it is regarded as the community property of the whole people or the property of each individual citizen and give it to some man to recoup him his loss in waging a private enter prise. Suppose under our system of laws two men were required to conduct their contest for the right to a seat in the Legislature before the court instead of before the Legislature itself, would any one dare say that the costs and ex-Notes and Itlls Rediscounted penses of both or either of the parties should be paid by the public! #### THE LIVER QUARANTINE

TAKING HIS MEALS OUT."

flurrled eating has ruined many a man's stomach. The digestion-destroying process is gradual, often unuoticed at first. But it is only a short time until the liver balks, the digestive organs give way, and almost countless ills assail the man who endeavors to economize time at the expense of his health.

A torpid liver causes a quarantine of the entire system. It locks in the diseased germs and body poisons and affords them full play, Inviting some serious illness, In families where August Flower's used, a sluggish liver and constipation are un-known, so are all stomach ailments, as well as indigestion; dyspepsia, heurtburn, headaches and kinney and blader affec-tions.
